Let your kitchen breathe.
Any time.

Or is your kitchen choking on grease?

- Grease deposits
- Odour nuisance
- Wear and tear of motors/filters
- Grease fire hazard
- Inefficient heat exchangers

VENT teaches the grease the ins and outs.

How exactly does the cleaning process run?

VENT works with enzymes that clean the ventilation system continuously – even with strong contaminations.

Step 1: Biochemical reduction

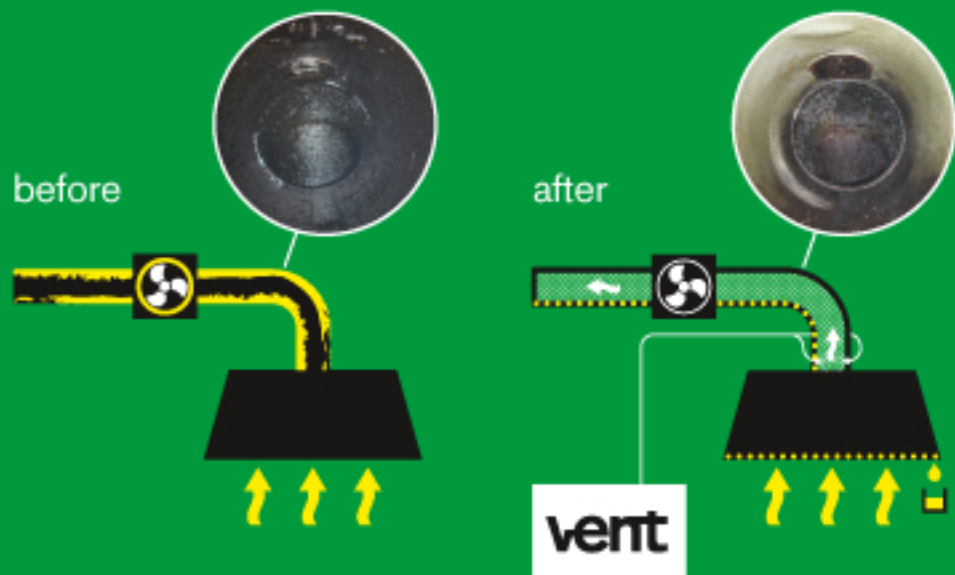

The cleaner is nebulized into the exhaust duct. The liquid is distributed inside the exhaust duct just like the greasy particles in the exhaust air and will split the greases up in glycerine and fatty acids. The incrustations will soften.

Step 2: Solvation

The split-up greases dissolve from the duct walls and flow back into the grease collection channels. Grease drain cocks facilitate draining in longer duct sections.

Step 3: Encapsulation of odours

Odour molecules are encapsulated. The odour absorber will absorb unpleasant, rancid odours.

With VENT you are on the clean side.

- NSF certified
- No labelling required under the CLP Regulation
- Operating principle confirmed scientifically
- Dermatologically tested
